

Sail On

Milestones in life may come and go,
But another birthday doesn't mean you'll have to row,
It just means you've got to hoist your sails high,
And set back and watch as another year goes by.
With you at the helm to catch the wind,
You're sure to make it around another bend.
Some boats have been known to rock and tip,
But your steady hand has always guided this ship.
So set your sails high with your eye on the goal,
This ship need not fear the rocks or shoal.
It's guided by another hand that's placed over yours,
And it's sure to land safe on Heaven's shores.

Written by Louise Hall for her husband, Bill