

“Sound the Warning”

When life is good and the years are ebbing away,
You’ve plenty of time, is what man may say,
So just sit back, relax, and take your ease,
Eat, drink and be merry, do as you please.

But who’ll sound the warning of His soon return,
If we don’t share with them, can they discern,
That a storm is coming and they need to prepare,
This message you must take, if you really care.
The message of salvation, Jesus came to bring,
Was his death for naught or will he be your King.

Harvest is ready but workers are few,
Will we fret and worry or will we do,
What He has said is preach the word and exhort,
Days may seem long but time is very short.
The ship is in a storm, many are on the brink,
Will you help to steer the ship or will you let them sink.
